Greetings Earthlings!!

Below is some correspondence you might be interested in reading. Apparently the folks at <http://ToDonnaLoveBob.Org> have not seen fit to write a Final Report, so it's left to me to report to you on the status of the web site. I have to write up a version of my own anyway, since people will be asking me about it, as the "victim" of the experiment.

You've been very patient (though I'd like to thank those of you who were NOT patient and inspired me to make contact again), and you all deserve to know what I know about it, since YOU were resourceful enough to find me in the first place.

I apologize to those who have e-mailed to me since August when I first received a reply from Ruben LePrevost (below). Since he still wanted secrecy at that time, I kept up the pronouncements of ignorance.

For those interested in MY status currently, I'm out of work and looking for a job in the Orlando FL area. I have recently moved in with friends in Casselberry FL, a northern suburb of Orlando, and about 55 miles from the Canaveral Spaceport. I am available for travel and lecturing on topics about the Space Program, as well as simplified access to the World Wide Web via mobile phones and other "alternative" web browsing platforms (including using Lynx, the non-graphic web browser used by blind users with speech synthesizers).

I am keeping up the <http://SpaceLaunchInfo.Com> web site, and send out SMS Text Messages with updates on the status of rocket and shuttle launches via UPOC.Com. The service is free, but your mobile carrier's text messaging charges or plans will apply.

I will send out another message when I've gotten my web page updated with the new information I've received from Ruben. Since I really DO have to finally publish that FanZine to let my friends know the details of this little adventure, a copy of the Zine will be a File Attachment at that time.

If I can be of any further assistance, please let me know. If you should be coming to the Orlando area for a visit (it IS a major tourist and convention destination after all), I'd be happy to join you for coffee sometime during your stay. You can reach me by dialing 321-Liftoff (+1 321 543 8633)

Ozzie

No, I do NOT know why a 1975 photo of me in a space suit is plastered all over London.

Oops, yes I do! But it will be a couple of days to get it up on the website. :-)
